THE SHELBY DEMOCRAT.

Now, for victory! It can be won. It must be won. It will be won. The county convention yesterday, transacted its business, and adjourned in perfect harmony. Early unity is the prime necessity for success, and we are rejoiced to know that the Democracy of Shelby county will go into the contest for the election of county officers with a solid and compact organization. In another column we give full reports of the proceedings of the convention yesterday, from which it will be seen that Charles L. Anderson was nominated for sheriff, and George W. Jordan for attorney general. Mr. Anderson was elected two years ago, and of course will be re-elected on the third of August. All parties concede that he has made the best sheriff that ever served the county of Shelby county. He has been scrupulously faithful in the discharge of his duties; prompt in collections and prompt in the payment of moneys when called. His official career has been eminently satisfactory. The bar is enthusiastic in his praise. Witnesses, clerks and jurors, and, indeed, all who have business with our courts, unite in the opinion that G. L. Anderson has been a model sheriff. He is a genial gentleman of fine social qualities. He will enter into the canvass with all the enthusiasm of his warm and generous heart. It is impossible to defeat such a popular candidate—such a faithful and efficient officer. J. J. Raymond was nominated by acclamation for the office of county treasurer. He was elected two years ago, and not a single murmur of complaint has been raised against him as a county official. The responsibility of his office have been increased for the next two years. He has to give a bond for nearly half a million of dollars, which he can execute any day, and this shows the high estimate which the people of Shelby place in his integrity. Mr. Raymond has resided in Memphis for forty years, and his deaf would be a calamity to the county he has so faithfully served. But there is no danger of this, as we understand the Radicals and Independents, knowing his inviolability before the people, will place his name upon their ticket. Thomas H. Logwood, a gallant soldier, a good lawyer, an honest citizen, and a hearty and intelligent Democrat, received the nomination for criminal judge, defeating Judge Adams after a long and severe contest, and notwithstanding he was pitted against many able lawyers, and more than one as popular a partisan as himself. No man in the party better deserves the reward for party services implied in this nomination than Colonel Logwood, and few men before the bar of Memphis are more worthy of it than the score of the ability and discretion necessary to the impartial enforcement of our criminal laws. He has been a resident of Memphis for twenty-five years, enjoys an unblemished reputation, being found equal to every emergency of duty devolving upon him. We shall support him, confident that his nomination will be confirmed by the people. The endorsement of General Gordon by his nomination for attorney general has no honor to his credit, and his nomination will meet with popular approval. He has proven himself admirably fitted for the important office of attorney general of the Barlett circuit court, giving entire satisfaction to the people of the county at large, and those in the vicinity of Barlett particularly. A gentleman, a scholar, a pains-taking lawyer and an upright citizen, General Gordon will strengthen the ticket, and we predict, will poll as heavy a vote as any of the gentlemen whose names with his comprise it. It will thus be seen that the ticket nominated yesterday is an excellent one personally and politically. There is not a man on it who is not qualified for the office for which he has been nominated. On it will be found two names which carried the county two years ago by such an overwhelming majority. The whole ticket is composed of men equal in integrity, ability and general merits to the men who swept the county in the last election, and they will be elected by the same majority unless the people of Shelby county are weary of their present officials and propose the restoration of Radical rule. The ticket which the Democrats nominated yesterday will be hailed with great enthusiasm throughout the county. We place it at the head of our column, and invoke in its behalf the trust and admiration of the Democracy of Shelby. The APPEAL will anxiously labor for its election. The whole party should rally enthusiastically to its support, and the candidates owe to the cause and themselves all the labor and watchfulness they can possibly give. They are now in the position of officers in the grand army of Democracy, and then the masses look for the qualities of leadership. The man who wastes all his energies in securing a nomination, and exerts himself no further, feeling assured that the press will do all the work, or that the majority will be large enough, and that the position is secure, is unworthy of the position to which he has been nominated. Let us rally to the support of the ticket. Tennessee is one of the few States that will vote prior to the Presidential election, and let us give a Democratic majority on the third of August which will thrill and excite the spirits of the National Democracy. Let all true Democrats rally to the support of the ticket, and let all who hate the Democratic party and its organization go to the Radical camp, and in the hour of trial we will know whom to trust, and whom to watch.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—The chair laid before the senate a message from the President in regard to the case of Winslow, which was read in the house yesterday. Ordered printed and referred. Senator Morton submitted a resolution instructing the committee on privileges and elections to inquire into the law, and protect the inviolability of private telegraphic dispatches sent by magnetic telegraph, and what legislation is necessary to prevent the seizure of such dispatches by unauthorized or freeloading persons, and report by bill or otherwise. Agreed to. Senator Sherman called up the house joint resolution authorizing the secretary of the treasury to issue ten million dollars in silver coin, in exchange for legislative notes. He submitted an amendment, providing that the trade dollar shall not hereafter be a legal tender, and authorizing the secretary of the treasury to limit the coinage thereof to such an amount as he may deem sufficient for the export demand of the same. Agreed to. Senator Allison, from the committee on Indian Affairs, reported the bill to transfer the office of commissioner of Indian affairs from the interior to the war department, and recommended that it be passed until the first Thursday after the first Monday in December next. Senator Ingalls asked that it be laid on the table for the present. So ordered. Senator Sherman called up the joint resolution to authorize the President to convene the conference upon the subject of the relative value of gold and silver. Passed. Senator Mitchell gave notice that on Monday next, after the morning hour, he would call up the resolution to pay to B. S. Finckh the compensation and mileage of senator, from March 3, 1875, to the termination of his contest by the senate. The joint resolution was then passed, and the senate went into executive session to consider the nomination of Morrill for secretary of the treasury, and the nomination was immediately confirmed without formality of reference. On reopening the doors, the senate resumed the consideration of unfinished business. The Indian bill was the first question brought on the amendment proposed by the committee on appropriations to amend the act of March 3, 1875, to provide for the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department, and transfer the government of the Indians to the war department. Senators Allison, Morton and Frelinghuysen opposed the transfer, and Senator Sherman, Mr. Ingalls favored it. The latter said that the senate had agreed not to attach to the appropriation bill any amendment involving general legislation, and that the senate had formally and the bill reported this morning was taken up, and the discussion continued on the bill. Senator Edmunds said it was plain that this provision in the bill to transfer the bureau was not harmonious, and considering the present state of the session, and the fact that unless the appropriation bill should be passed within five days the session would be adjourned, he thought it best to pass the appropriation bill and leave out the clause in regard to the transfer of the Indian bureau. On motion of Senator Edmunds, the house bill to amend certain sections of titles forty-eight and fifty-two of the revised statutes of the United States, concerning the Indian Affairs, and the registration of steam vessels, known as the steamboat bill, was recommended to the committee on commerce. The senate then proceeded to vote on the motion of Senator Ingalls to lay aside the Indian bill, and take up the house bill reported by the committee on appropriations, to strike out the third section of the house bill to transfer the Indian bureau to the war department, and the senate agreed to—Yes, 26; nays 15. A substitute and amendment were offered and rejected. The question was on the amendment of the committee to strike out the third section, proposing to transfer it, was taken up—yeas 22, nays 22. The bill was then read a third time and passed. The naval appropriation bill was then taken up, and the senate agreed to—yeas 22, nays 22. The house went into committee on the whole, Mr. Blackburn in the chair, on the bill to amend the act of March 3, 1875, to provide for the transfer of the Indian bureau to the war department, and transfer the government of the Indians to the war department. Mr. Sherman addressed the committee in reference to the Freedmen's savings and trust company. Mr. Cook made an address on the subject of grievances in the southern States, and in advocacy of the refunding of the debt. A message from the senate, announcing the passage by that body of the senate amendment to the silver bill, the consideration of the study civil appropriation bill was temporarily interrupted. Mr. Cox moved a concurrences in the senate's action. Mr. Randall suggested that as this was in the question involving currency, and as the change of a word in one of the amendments would completely vary the meaning of the bill, the matter should go over till tomorrow, and Mr. Cox consented to its postponement. Mr. Landon made a speech against the bill, and the amendments were referred to the committee on banking and currency, to be reported back to the house. The committee on naval affairs has addressed a letter to the commissioner of Indian Affairs, requesting him to send the committee the amount of income returned by the secretary for the years in which the income tax existed, each year's income separately. The house again went into committee on the whole on sundry civil appropriation bills, and several speeches were made, the committee having proceeded to consider the bill by Mr. Warren offered an amendment to pay the executor of the estate of the late Henry Wilson ten thousand, two hundred and twenty-two dollars, being the salary for the unexpired term of his office as Vice-President. After speeches

Reduction in English Miners' Wages.

SHEFFIELD, June 21.—The Telegraph to-day says that a further reduction of two pence in the rate of wages in the West Riding of Yorkshire, is about to be made, and it is thought it will be accepted. The secretary of the Miners' union has written to the local leaders: "We are on the eve of a terrible crisis, and there is not to be a strike, but terms are to be made somehow." It is asserted the miners that if the strike is begun, there is every likelihood that it will continue some time, with the possibility of a battle to submit to a still greater reduction.
